Heady Holiday Put-ons

So much to do, so little time . . . let a wig or wiglet help you shine throughout the merry, crowded hours

Some of the prettiest hairdos you can wear are the ones you keep in a box. They're fakes all right, but the difference they can make—especially when you're in a hurry—is genuine joy! There are full wigs or frisky wiglets, short or long, smooth or curly, in a range of colors to match what nature gave you or work an instant, magic-wand change. Upkeep is upbeat when your "hair" is spun of high-quality synthetic fibers, like all the hand-washable pretties shown here. No setting is needed; just shake, brush and wear. What do you do with your own hair? If it's too long to hide, pull it into a ponytail with a coated elastic band, twirl it toward the crown and bobby-pin it flat. If a new wig is not pre-cut or completely flattering, it should be styled by a professional to suit your face and features. Its lines and curves will come alive. And its style will stay whatever the weather—which helps when the Christmas angel is you.

Make a charming conquest, build an empire all your own—it's part of the art of this witty wig with Napoleonic ways. Short, layered and airily tossed, its special hallmark is the cropped bangs (even if you can't usually wear bangs, these may be for you). Long sideburns and a tapered back soften up the outer edges. Pop it on and enter new beauty territory. Of Kanekalon modacrylic, thirty-one shades. Jamie wig by Paragon; about $25

Is there a pixie in the house? She's wearing a pert straight-haired wig brushed and swirled from a pivot point at the crown into a close-hugging caper cut. The bangs can go this way or that; the sides are trimmed to frame your face, with little flicks of fancy at the ends. Made of Kanekalon modacrylic in twenty-six shades (including frosteds), this heady topping is on a contour-cap stretch base and has its own carrying case. Sabrina wig by Carousel; about $25
